RIDGE VIEW HAS A HEART FOR GIVING

Ridge View High School really has a heart for not only the community surrounding the school, but also the international community of man. Recently, Ridge View students raised $5417.00 for Awere Secondary School in northern Uganda as part of its spring project for the "Night Commuters." If you were to add up all of the service projects all yearlong that our students did, you would see that they have raised over $30,000.00 in monetary donations. It didn't stop there. Our students gave of their time in service hours to elementary schools, nursing homes, Special Olympics, and Saturday school projects. The School Community Leadership students gave 23,018 hours of their time and the Student Council served over 12,000 hours. The total number of hours RVHS students spent in service this year was a phenomenal 35,018 hours. Richland School District Two can be very proud of the students we have here at Ridge View High School.

MARTIN'S CORNER

Dear Parents,

This has been a fast school year. The students at Ridge View have been wonderful. You are obviously great parents. Thank you for how well you have taught them to be cheerful, caring and friendly people.

I encourage you to make the summer a time for continued academic preparation. This can be done by motivating your sons and daughters to complete their summer reading. The next school year will be here before we know it.

Have a great summer!

Marty Martin

Crystal Alicia Garrett

MISS SC VISITS RIDGE VIEW HIGH

Crystal Alicia Garrett is a hometown girl and former Ridge View High School student. She wears the crown of Miss South Carolina and she visited our school today to speak with students about her life and the issues she holds dear to her heart. Her motto is, "Strive towards Excellence" and she shared a little about the obstacles she has had to overcome while working towards her goals. As an asthmatic, her parents were told that she might not make it to the age of 21. She has done this and more. Crystal is controlling her asthma and has been able to do cardiovascular exercises and compete in sports. She was told that due to asthma she would not be able to pursue her dream of a singing. She majors in voice at the University of South Carolina and plans to attend Julliard School of Music. Following her education, she hopes to have a career in the music industry. Crystal told the students of her early decisions neither to smoke nor to do drugs. She also informed them that what they do in high school does matter and will affect the rest of their lives. Her inspirational words and her gift of being able to relate to high school students kept the audience enraptured. She sang from Dream Girls and the hymn Amazing Grace and received a standing ovation. She had some great thoughts to share with Ridge View students and one of them was "Life is not about always winning, it's about doing your personal best."

INSIDE STORY HEADLINE

This story can fit 150-200 words.

One benefit of using your newsletter as a promotional tool is that you can reuse content from other marketing materials, such as press releases, market studies, and reports.

While your main goal of distributing a newsletter might be to sell your product or service, the key to a successful newsletter is making it useful to your readers.

A great way to add useful content to your newsletter is to develop and write your own articles, or include a calendar of upcoming events or a special offer that promotes a new product.

You can also research articles or find "filler" articles by accessing the World Wide Web. You can write about a variety of topics but try to keep your articles short.

Much of the content you put in your newsletter can also be used for your Web site. Microsoft Publisher offers a simple way to convert your newsletter to a Web publication. So, when you're finished writing your newsletter, convert it to a Web site and post it.

INSIDE STORY HEADLINE

This story can fit 100-150 words.

The subject matter that appears in newsletters is virtually endless. You can include stories that focus on current technologies or innovations in your field.

You may also want to note business or economic trends, or make predictions for your customers or clients.

If the newsletter is distributed internally, you might comment upon new procedures or improvements to the business. Sales figures or earnings will show how your business is growing.

Some newsletters include a column that is updated every issue, for instance, an advice column, a book review, a letter from the president, or an editorial. You can also profile new employees or top customers or vendors.

This story can fit 75-125 words.

Selecting pictures or graphics is an important part of adding content to your newsletter.

Think about your article and ask yourself if the picture supports or enhances the message you're trying to convey. Avoid selecting images that appear to be out of context.

Microsoft Publisher includes thousands of clip art images from which you can choose and import into your newsletter. There are also several tools you can use to draw shapes and symbols.

Once you have chosen an image, place it close to the article. Be sure to place the caption of the image near the image.

This would be a good place to insert a short paragraph about your organization. It might include the purpose of the organization, its mission, founding date, and a brief history. You could also include a brief list of the types of products, services, or programs your organization offers, the geographic area covered (for example, western U.S. or European markets), and a profile of the types of customers or members served.

It would also be useful to include a contact name for readers who want more information about the organization.

BACK PAGE STORY HEADLINE

This story can fit 175-225 words.

If your newsletter is folded and mailed, this story will appear on the back. So, it's a good idea to make it easy to read at a glance.

A question and answer session is a good way to quickly capture the attention of readers. You can either compile questions that you've received since the last edition or you can summarize some generic questions that are frequently asked about your organization.

A listing of names and titles of managers in your organization is a good way to give your newsletter a personal touch. If your organization is small, you may want to list the names of all employees.

If you have any prices of standard products or services, you can include a listing of those here. You may want to refer your readers to any other forms of communication that you've created for your organization.

You can also use this space to remind readers to mark their calendars for a regular event, such as a breakfast meeting for vendors every third Tuesday of the month, or a biannual charity auction.

If space is available, this is a good place to insert a clip art image or some other graphic.
